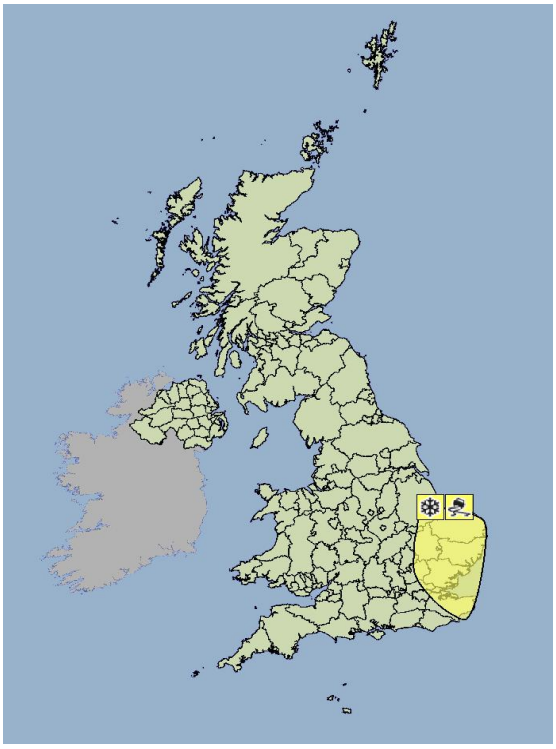
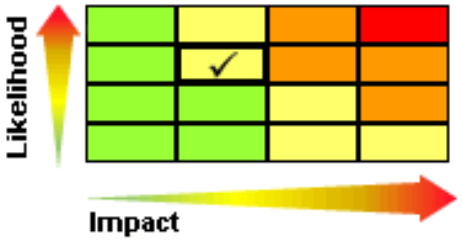
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A band of sleet and snow will turn more showery overnight but with some heavier bursts possible, especially over Norfolk and Suffolk. 1-4 cm of snow is possible in places there, though rain and sleet may occur along coasts. Elsewhere some places seeing a cm or so of snow but ice may be the more widespread hazard.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 15:00 on Tue, 06th Feb 2018 until 10:00 on Wed, 07th Feb 2018

Sleet and snow showers will continue to affect parts of eastern and southeastern England later on Tuesday, lasting well into the night in places. Some mostly small accumulations of snow are likely.

This is an update to focus the warning area further south.

Expect some delays to travel, while untreated surfaces become icy, leading to an increased risk of accidents or injuries.
